

BOYD ANNOUNCES ADDITIONAL FEDERAL STIMULUS DOLLARS FOR TALLAHASSEE COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTERS

WASHINGTON, D.C.—U.S. Congressman Allen Boyd (D-North Florida) announced today that two community health centers in Tallahassee, Florida, are scheduled to receive additional federal stimulus dollars. Bond Community Health Center will receive a grant totaling $626,530, and North Florida Medical Centers will receive a grant of $811,085. This funding was made available under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, which was signed into law earlier this year with Congressman Boyd's support.

"Improving the quality, affordability, and availability of healthcare is extremely important to me and the people in North Florida," said Congressman Boyd. "Community health centers provide essential, comprehensive health services, and I am pleased that the Tallahassee community will be able to benefit from this funding."

To date, Bond Community Health Center has received $1,081,586 and North Florida Medical Centers has received $341,156 in stimulus funding.
